Course Description
The Challenges in Worker’s Compensation Treatment Course will provide physicians and other healthcare professionals with an approach to the evaluation and treatment of conditions commonly encountered within the workplace. The course will focus on injuries that are often difficult to diagnose, are refractory to standard treatment, or warrant early referral to a specialist in order to optimize outcomes. Case based scenarios will be utilized to guide participants through formulating differential diagnoses, ordering appropriate diagnostic studies, developing an effective treatment plan and deciding when to refer to a higher level of care. Participants will benefit from the insightful perspective of multiple specialists, with an opportunity to ask questions.

Course Learning Objectives
Upon conclusion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Raise awareness of the potential for more complex injuries
- Identify patients that may benefit from timely specialty referral
- Consider early referral if a peripheral nerve injury is suspected
- Discuss other treatment options for injuries that fail to respond to standard treatment modalities
